Limited Availability in the Upcoming Weeks

Please note that many of our offices and projects will have differing and limited open hours in the upcoming weeks.

Please contact your local LawNY office with any questions and for specific hours. You can find each office's main line by visiting the "Find a Lawyer" section of our website, LawNY.org. If you are already working with an advocate, please contact them directly.

If you are having trouble getting through to one of our offices, you may also fill out an application for our services on our website under the "Apply for Our Services"

You can also find more information about our services and over 100 legal information articles on our website by visiting the “legal information” section of our website at LawNY.org. These articles were all put together by our attorneys and advocates in order to best serve our communities, even if we aren’t able to directly offer legal advice.

Please also note that different courts and agencies have limited availability during this period. Please reach out to your local Department of Social Services for emergency housing if necessary.

We look forward to bettering our services and furthering our mission with you all in the new year!
